In a market of 800 million ounces the Chinese who used to export 100 million ounces a year are not important over a 100 million ounces a year That&8217s a huge shift in just demand from China Wait til the major buyers really get into the market The physical market is already suffering from difficulties in meeting demand Eric Sprott who started his own physical silver trust has difficulty acquiring just 10-15 million ounces This is in a market that trades 20-30 times this amount EVERY DAY You can see from these numbers alone the discrepancy between the physical market and the paper market for silver What this means is there is an abundance of paper silver which will eventually collapse when all that paper comes back chasing the same amount of physical silver and that there is a shortage of physical silver One huge sign of this is that the silver market is currently in backwardation which means it costs more to acquire the item now than it does to get it later Backwardation rarely occurs in these metals markets the opposite condition contangously usually is in effect as buyers and sellers must factor in the cost of storage and insurance for deliverable stocks The supply of silver in warehouses like Comex&8217s have been steadily declining and demand is rising at the same time These two things spell one result &8211 silver prices MUST go higher Silver used to trade on a 15 to 1 or 16 to 1 ratio with gold It was trading at almost 60-70 to 1 with gold a while ago but now that has decreased to about 40 to 1 This trend is one of the reasons why dollar for dollar silver is a better investment than gold today Silver should close the gap with gold to at least its historic ratio of 16 to 1 but this time around there is a lot more industrial demand for silver that is causing the worldwide supply of silver to constantly shrink because silver is used up and discarded while gold is primarily held as wealth and recycled when it is used We have much more industrial applications for silver now than before and they same cannot be said for gold The federal reserve and most central banks around the world are continuing to print money and sell debt as their means to their money problems The more money there is out there chasing the same amount of goods and services leads to inflation You cannot print more bills and expect their value to remain the same Silver and gold are the best protections against inflation QE3 QE4 QE5&8230&8230QE9999 Posted in Uncategorized Leave a reply Silver Price in Malaysia Posted on November 3 2011 by admin2 Share A
